SOUTH OF PROSPECT NEIGHBORHOOD PLAN

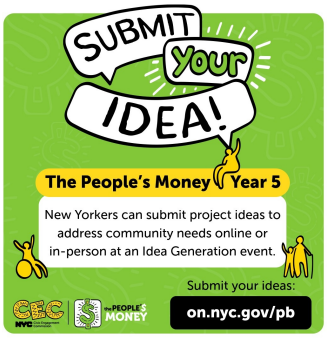

More information and updates at cb14brooklyn.com/project/southofprospect

The New York City Department of City Planning is developing the South of Prospect Neighborhood Plan with input from residents, community organizations, elected officials, and other City agencies. The plan focuses on parts of Coney Island and McDonald Avenues and will consider opportunities for more housing, including permanently affordable housing, economic development, and improvements to streets and public spaces. Community feedback will help identify local priorities and shape the plan as it develops. Residents can take the South of Prospect survey to share their experiences, ideas, and priorities for the area. More information, updates, and surveys in additional languages are available on the official South of Prospect Neighborhood Plan website.
